

“Back to Basics: Dentin Hypersensitivity & Enamel Erosion”
2 CEU course Presented by: Dalia Lai
Saturday December 2, 2023 9am to 11pm
Virtual Presentation via ZOOM!

Course Description:

Dentin Hypersensitivity affects 1 in 3 patients in ways that can severely impact their quality of life however only 30% of those patients even know what the condition is. Enamel Erosion can be a precursor to dentin hypersensitivity. Where does a dental professional begin? A beautiful mixture of anatomy, physiology and lifestyle factors can contribute to enamel erosion and the onset of dentin hypersensitivity and invariably the management of those factors can contribute to a patient's ultimate oral health. This course is designed to reinforce the daily screening of patients, a review of the anatomical and lifestyle causes enamel erosion and dentin hypersensitivity as well as the different prevention and treatment options available.

Learning Outcomes:

- Create and practice implementing an oral health screening protocol to identify dentin hypersensitivity
- Understand dental anatomy and its relation to the nervous system
- Articulate the mode of action of up to date over the counter and in office methods for treating dentin hypersensitivity
- Be able to articulate the Enamel Erosion condition progression and consequences in a way that is translatable to the patient
- Identify the presentation of Enamel Erosion in the mouth
- Address barriers to Enamel Erosion prevention by an increased knowledge level of up to date over the counter oral health care products
